The Neurosis of Obsessions and Canonical Marital Consensus

Summary

One of the groups of psychic diseases that cause not only disorders of mind and will, but also the whole personality, are obsessions. Being under their influence the human being is unable to concentrate on the subject of marital consensus, he/she cannot estimate the value of harmony or his/her will is so weak that the person suffering from obsessions does not have the freedom of choice. When the force of obsessions comes to a high degree, they paralyze the person’s everyday life. This disease has such a big influence that the person suffering from it is unable to lead conjugal life as his/her thoughts are occupied by something else and he/she thinks neither about striving for mutual improvement nor about upbringing his/her offspring.
