

Summary

The subject of this article is the fate of man after death. The author, based on the approaches of leading theologians, mainly W. Hryniewicz, presents the theological concepts concerning the afterlife reality. The author shows the concept of resurrection at the moment of death. He also presents the vision of the time in the perspective of the Pascal Mystery. Much place is also given in showing God's judgement as a source of hope for man. The final part is dedicated to the question of the salvation of rebels.